Position Statement 6
Justice

WWDA YOUTH BELIEVE,

- ✓ Access to justice is one of the most important civil and political human rights.
- ✓ Women and girls with disability have the right to be recognised as equal before the law.
- ✓ Women and girls with disability have the right to legal capacity and to receive support and advice to make legal decisions.
- ✓ Accurate and easy to understand information must be made available so that women and girls with disability can give their informed consent.

THE FACTS

A large number of young people with disability are in detention and the youth justice system.

There are more women with disability in prisons than men with disability.

Violence against women and girls with disability happens a lot in Australia. Many survivors do not get justice.

Women and girls with disability are often denied the right to make legal decisions. Instead, decisions are made for them by parents, courts, doctors and government officials.

WHAT IT MEANS

JUSTICE

Justice is a legal word that means being treated justly or fairly. It also means that people who break the law, including seriously hurting someone else, should pay for their crimes.

INFORMED CONSENT

To give your permission or agree for something to happen or be done, after you have been provided with information and support to understand the consequences of that decision.

LEGAL CAPACITY

Being recognised as able to make decisions that have legal consequences. You can do things like consent to a medical operation, get a loan, sign a lease for an apartment or get married.

EQUALITY BEFORE THE LAW

Being offered the same rights and protection as everyone else in the legal system.

HUMAN RIGHTS

Human Rights are basic rights to freedom, dignity and fairness that all people have, no matter their race, ethnicity, nationality, age, sex, gender, sexuality, disability or political beliefs. Human rights are protected by international law.

LEARN MORE

HUMAN RIGHTS

Human rights are protected under international law. These rights are described in documents called conventions or treaties. Countries such as Australia can agree to be bound by these laws.

CONVENTION ON THE RIGHTS OF THE CHILD (CRC)

The CRC describes and protects the human rights of children and young people. Check out the “For Youth” page to learn more about your rights: www.unicef.org/rightsite/433.htm

CONVENTION ON THE RIGHTS OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES (CRPD)

The CRPD describes and protects the rights of all people with disability. You can find an easy to understand version of the convention at: www.unicef.org/publications/index_43893.html

LAWSTUFF

Lawstuff is a website dedicated to providing legal information to children and young people in Australia. Check it out at: www.lawstuff.org.au

WOMEN WITH DISABILITIES AUSTRALIA (WWDA) HUMAN RIGHTS TOOLKIT

WWDA has created a toolkit for women and girls with disability to learn about their human rights and demand their rights. www.wwda.org.au/papers/toolkit
